“If I should slip away”

When you see or hear me no more and tomorrow for me comes never again

Please don't grieve my going away for after all I too am only a mortal man

When the end of my day comes and I just slip away be it morning, noon or night or in the evening of the day

Please don't grieve my going away Just realize I have paid the price we all must pay

I'll miss you an awful lot whether You realize it or not and I surely hope you miss me too

Through the Grace of God this day has been a long time coming, and I pray that you live a long time too

Original poem Elder Darwin Ali
